

5

UNIT FIVE

Page 74

■ Tick chart

Tick the type of company to which the statements apply. You may want to tick more than one box. Discuss your answers with your classmates.

	indigenous	transnational	global
Operating costs are kept as low as possible.
May turn out to be fierce competition for local companies and force them out of business.
Most of these companies stay small in size.
Local people benefit from improved infrastructure and job opportunities.
Some of these companies exploit workers and show little or no concern for social or environmental issues.
Major decisions are made from the companies' head office.			