Social Media Mistakes Teens Should Avoid

I read an article in the New York Times that got me thinking about the problems we can bring on ourselves through social media.

The article tells the story of Justine Sacco whose life was truly ruined because of a poorly worded tweet she posted. Not only did she disappoint and embarrass her family but she was fired from her job and even received threats from complete strangers who misunderstood the meaning of her tweet. This doesn't seem right to me. What do you think?

You have decided to comment on this blog post. In your blog comment you should:

- state if you think it's right that any person's life can be ruined by a social media post
- suggest ways in which teenagers can avoid social media mistakes
- comment on who should teach youngsters about the dangers of social media

Write around 250 words.
